

Private First Class Tim Woomeer, an entry-level student with Logistics Operations School (LOS), Marine Corps Combat Service Support Schools, performs electrical operational checks using a panel electrical system for a High Mobility Multiple Wheeled Vehicle at Camp Johnson, NC, 17 March 2010. LOS provides relevant, timely, effective and SAT compliant training to entry, intermediate, and advanced students in the logistics related areas of embarkation, landing support, maintenance management, motor transport maintenance, motor transport operations, and combat service support; and sustains the professional transformation of Marines in order to prepare them for immediate and effective service, commensurate with their grade and Military Occupational Specialty, in the Operating Forces and Supporting Establishment. (U.S. Marine Corps photo by Lance Corporal Matthew L. Hebert)(Released)

Marines